Naples, March 3.

THE Marquis de Liche, our new Vice-roy, has been very ill since his coming hither, but is so well recovered as to be in a condition to remove from the Convent where he took his Quarters upon his first arrival, to the Palace, and to enter upon the dispatch of Publick Affairs. The Prince de Montesarchio, General of the Galleys of Sicily, is upon his departure for Palermo.

Milan, March 10. The Count de Melgar our Governor has assigned quarters for the Troops which are arrived from Naples, from whence he expects a farther supply of Men, and Money; and we are particularly told, that the Marquis de Liche, Viceroy of Naples, is treating with the Bankiers there about remitting hither 200 thousand Crowns, to be employed for the Service of this State. From Turin they write, That they are raising with great diligence the two Regiments of Dragoons which the Duke of Savoy is obliged by the Treaty he lately made with the French King to have on foot before the end of this Month, but that the Persons who had undertaken to furnish the Horses, were very hard put to it to provide them. On the fifth Instant arrived at Turin an Express from the Court of France with Letters to the Marquis de la Trousse, who thereupon dispatched a Courier to Casal.

Venice, March 13. On Monday last parted from hence the Duke of Mantoua, who had passed some time here. We are expecting here the young Princes of Newburg from Rome, in their return to Germany. Our last Letters from Constantinople are Dated the 10th of January; they give us an account of the Grand-Signior's arrival at Adrianople, and of the great Preparations that are making for the War against the Emperor; That the Grand-Vizier did publickly declare, That he would have 200 thousand Men in the Field, which he intended should act in three or four distinct Bodies; That the Caimacam at Constantinople had, in pursuance of the Orders he had received from the Grand-Signior, stopt three or four Venetian Merchant Ships, which were ready to Sail, and had obliged the Commanders of them to put all their Goods again on Shore, in order to their attending the Service of the Grand-Signior, who had commanded, That they should go and fetch his Troops from Cairo; and that the Count de Caprara, the Imperial Minister, was endeavouring to obtain leave to return home. From Rome of the ninth Instant they write, That Signior Ranucci was arrived there from his Bishoprick of Fano, and that he was preparing for his Journey to France, whither the Pope is sending him in quality of his Nuncio, to present the Blest Clouts to the Duke of Burgundy.

Genoua, March 17. This State is fitting out four new Galleys, which the Senate have named Commanders for, and they are about choosing a General of their Galleys. They have resolved to add a Half-Moon to the new Fortifications at Bisagno, and have allowed forty thousand Livres for that Service. They write from Spain, That that Crown intends to have a Fleet of 24 Men of War, and as many Galleys, in the Mediterranean this Summer for the Security of this State.

Warsaw, March 5. The usual Term of the sitting of the Dyet is ready to expire, and yet the matters they have had in debate are not brought to any Conclusion, much time having been spent in Contests that have arisen between the Deputies, and in determining them, so that it is impossible to bring things to any Maturity without Prolonging of the time, which is the question that is now moved, and some there are that oppose it; alledging their Instructions are positive, That they should not suffer the antient Rule of Limiting the time of their Meeting to six Weeks, to be broken, but it's hoped these will be prevailed with, in consideration of the present necessity of it, to consent to a Prolongation. The King has disposed of all the vacant Offices and Employments, so that the Dyet is satisfied in that Point, it being always their first Request, That the King will fill the vacant Commands and Preferments. Count Walastain, the Emperor's Ambassador, has had two Conferences with the Commissioners appointed to Treat with him, who are 18 in number. The Baron de Cracow, Ambassador from the Elector of Brandenburg, has had his publick Audience of the King.

Vienna, March 18. Our Letters from Hungary do not speak of any thing but the great Preparations of the Turks; they tell us, That the Grand-Signior is expected at Belgrade the beginning of May, and that they are preparing a House near that place to receive him; That the Grand-Vizier will be there sooner, to give the necessary Orders for the Campagne, and that he intends to divide the Ottoman Troops into several Bodies, and to attack two or three places together. In the mean time the Preparations are made on this side with all possible diligence, and the Imperial Troops will now very quickly begin to March to the place appointed for their general Rendezvous.

Ratisbonne, March 18. The 10th Instant the Conclusion of the Electoral Colledge, of which we gave you an account in our last, was communicated to the Colledge of Princes, who having considered thereof, declared, That they could not depart from the Declaration they had already made on this Subject: The Electoral Colledge has in like manner declared, That they do adhere to their Conclusion of the 12th of December, and how this difference in their Opinions will be reconciled
